

Active Collaborative Transformative (ACT) 2 21st Century Language Arts Workshop

With Dr. Mike McCambridge, Professor at Cal Lutheran University

Advancing students' literacy development in reading, writing, speaking, listening, and language: an active teaching and learning approach that supports language arts common core standards and 21st Century Learning.

Participants unfamiliar with ACT and experienced ACT Teachers are encouraged to attend. Participants in this Active Collaborative Transformative (ACT) workshop will explore:

- ★ The ACT teaching and learning approach
- ★ Exciting and effective active teaching and learning strategies
- ★ What it is like to be a student in an ACT classroom
- ★ Research findings that suggest positive impact of advancing student literacy (reading, writing, speaking, listening, and language) and the 21st Century learning
- ★ An opportunity to teach a lesson using ACT strategies and effectively integrate them into their teaching style and into their daily lessons
- ★ And have fun!!

Workshop Goals

Each participant will:

- ★ Develop an understanding of the overall ACT approach and how this approach can advance student literacy through the common core and 21st Century learning.
- ★ Develop specific knowledge of ACT strategies and assessments and how and when to effectively integrate them into their teaching style and into their daily lessons
- ★ Have knowledge of ACT resources available including opportunities for professional development for administration and faculty and demonstration lessons with students
